SP settlement near

Depot, 2 blocks of parks face uncertain fate

PLEASANTON — Attorneys for the Southern Pacific Railroad and the Neal - Harris estate have reached an "agreement in principle" that leaves in doubt the future of not only the century old railroad station on Neal Street, but also two blocks of downtown parks and the Albers Feed and Farm Supply building.

While details of the final settlement "have to be worked out," according to an SP spokesman, it is known that the railroad is entertaining proposals for the future use of the historic two-story station.

The settlement apparently will involve tradeoff compensation in both land and money.

Southern Pacific denies it is specifically seeking a restaurant for the old station, but under questioning says "there have been some queries by people interested in commercial development. We do not know who has been talking about restaurants."

But if a settlement with the Neal-Harris estate involves both land and money and the SP gets the railway station, what will happen to that two block green belt that borders First Street?

Joshua Neal, one of Pleasanton's founders, deeded the land to Southern Pacific in the late 19th century. The deed held a reversionary clause that returned the land to his heirs if the railroad stopped using it.

Southern Pacific abandoned the railway station in 1958. Two years later it was taken over by the Pleasanton Glass Co., who last week applied for and received the city's permission to move to a new location.

The Neal-Harris estate invoked the reversion clause and sued the SP about a year and a half ago. While the railroad has argued that the heirs waited too long after the 1958 station closing, S. Victor Wagler, attorney for the estate, has claimed the reversion clause still is in effect.

Volunteers from the local Police Association and Lion's Club built Delucchi and Wayside Parks, those greenbelts flanking West Neal Street along the First Street thoroughfare, some 10 years ago, and the city has enjoyed two parks ever since.

Now their future remains in doubt.

Neither Wagler nor attorneys representing Southern Pacific will comment on the settlement.

Wagler would say only that he "expect(s) a settlement," and that the railroad has agreed with the reversion clause.

Southern Pacific has turned the case over to a private law firm, Foley, McIntosh and Foley of Orinda , but those at SP who are familiar with the case say the settlement will depend on future use of the land.

"At this point," they add, "it's impossible to say what will happen ... how, when or even if there'll be a settlement."

Robert Foley could not be reached for comment.

Wayside and Delucchi Parks are zoned "central commercial," a designation that could lead to general, light retail establishments — perhaps a perfect accompaniment to a railway depot refurbished as a retaurant, art museum or specialty shop.

Albers is zoned for office buildings.

But until the settlement is reached and publicized, the real owners of the land — either the railroad or the heirs — as well as their plans for the park property remain hidden behind a legal cloud.

The future of Pleasanton's downtown parks as well as its historic railway depot depend on a settlement between Southern Pacific Railroad and heirs of the Neal - Harris estate.

Councilman Mercer suggests:

Cash instead of parkland would buy improvements

PLEASANTON — Councilman Ken Mercer says he is up to his ears in paperwork as befits a new council member, but soon he would like the city council to tackle a new assignment.

The council should review its policies on neighborhood parks and determine whether contributions from subdividers can be taken in money instead of land in the future, says Mercer.

The city has enough park land to take care of itself for many years, Mercer contends. What is needed in several neighborhoods is money to finance the improvements for the bare parklands, he thinks.

Mercer brought up the idea a week ago at a city council meeting, but didn't get much response at the time. He told The Times yesterday he wants to talk to council members individually to convince them of the desirability to have a joint meeting with the park and recreation commission on the idea.

When Mercer brought up the idea he had a couple of qualified responses. Councilman William Herlihy said it would depend on where future development occurs. He put in a good word for neighborhood parks as places where kids can have unstructured play.

City Manager Bill Edgar said that the law is called a "neighborhood" park dedication ordinance. The money is contributed by a developer for the benefit of the neighborhood he or she builds, not for some neighborhood across town, said Edgar.

"The Supreme Court said that the money has to be spent adjacent to the development. How far away and how much money is the question. What is the relationship of the two," said Edgar.

Edgar made his remarks after Mercer said that perhaps the city would like to take less land in the Mackay II development for MacKay II park and put the money instead into other parks. In addition, the 16 lighted tennis courts slated for Mackay II amount to a regional facility and they just as well could be put in Youth Sports Park across the street from Mackay II, said Mercer.

"If you take the $500,000 for the tennis courts and put them into 10 acres of Youth Sports Park, that's $500,000 less you have to spend in Youth Sports Park," said Mercer. The city might then decide it wants only five of the 10 acres at MacKay II Park and can take the remainder in park dedication fees, he said.

Councilwoman Joyce LeClaire observed that if the city doesn't take the land for parks, the developer will put more homes on it. Mercer said yesterday that the need for land would have to be determined by the park and recreation commission.

"MacKay II is just one spot. We have to look at the community as a whole. Do we have to build two or three acre parks next to homes which already have a park a few blocks away," said Mercer.

A related topic for the joint city council - park and recreation commission meeting is a general plan review of the Youth Sports Park, saud Mercer.

"We need to try to determine what's going in there. In my opinion, I don't think the lagoon planned for it is such a good idea. We should have the park and recreation commission make decisions on what they would like to see," said Mercer.

Defends nuclear power

Speaker raps Proposition 15

PLEASANTON — Declaring proponents of Proposition 15, the nuclear initiative, have a "strong interest in turning back the clock," Bob Butler of General Electric's Vallecitos Center told the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce Tuesday that nuclear power is the only means to bridge the energy gap facing the Unites States in the near future.

Describing himself as an "outsider," since Vallecitos' efforts with radioactivity are directed toward medicine and general research, Butler stated the anti - Proposition 15 case to chamber members.

Using a U.S. Department of Commerce film and many pamphlets to support his case, Butler argued that the nuclear initiative would "lead to an end of nuclear power generation" in California, and perhaps the entire United States.

Butler explained that, with the United States' fossil fuels supply rapidly dwindling, the country will face a severe energy shortage by the year 2000.

To date, fusion, solar, wind, geothermal, hydroelectric and other suggested alternate sources of power have not been developed fully enough to bridge the energy gap.

Nuclear power, Butler said, "is the only source left in that time frame to fill the energy barrel."

He conceded that nuclear power "is not perfect." But he said the nuclear industry has a "safety record greater than any other means of generating electric power."

Butler criticized Proposition 15 supporters whom he said "have a strong interest in turning back the clock."

"The same people oppose a large part of our modern technology and want to return to the time of the Industrial Revolution," he said.

Butler said the campaign to have the initiative passed was "not based on technical issues" but was based "entirely on emotional appeals."

The Chamber of Commerce will vote next Tuesday on a resolution that would oppose Proposition 15 and support continued nuclear energy research.

The proponents of the initiative have been asked to give their side of the story, but a date has not been set.

Lab technician faces theft charges

LIVERMORE — A Lawrence Livermore Laboratory technician was arrested Monday on suspicion of receiving property stolen from LLL.

Alonze M. McDaniel, 49, of 3862 Yale Way in Livermore, was booked in city jail after LLL security officials discovered lab materials worth about $50,000 in his possession.

Officials had observed McDaniel behaving "unusually," a lab spokesman said, at the lab's Salvage Yard.

He was questioned and his car searched as he attempted to leave the south gate after 5 p.m. on Monday.

McDaniel gave officers written permission to search his home and a storage space he rents at 4171 First St.

A lab spokesman said a great deal of lab material was found including optical and electronic equipment and oscilloscopes. A preliminary estimate of the material's purchase value was set at $50,000.

More than five truckloads of material were carted back to the lab.

McDaniel has been a technician at LLL since 1969, both in Livermore and at Site 300. He works currently in the mechanical engineering department.

A lab spokesman said the offense is under state jurisdiction. He said the Federal Bureau of Investigation has been notified since LLL is operated by the University of California for the Federal government.

New Murray trustee

Linda Jeffery was sworn in as a Murray School District trustee this week to bring the board to full length. Mrs. Jeffery was the leading vote-getter in a field of six candidates at the March 2 elections. She will fulfill the unexpired term of Joanne Bascom who resigned suddenly last fall. The term runs through March of 1977. Mrs. Jeffery and her husband, Dennis, a Sheriff's captain at Santa Rita, have been residents of the Dublin area 13 years. Times Photo

Foothill bike trail down tubes

PLEASANTON — Hopes of a bicycle trail along Foothill Road apparently were dashed with news that Alameda County doesn't think the project is worth funding.

Director of Engineering Services Don Sooby gave the city council the news as part of his report on the city's plans for bicycle trails.

The county's share of the trail would cost more than $100,000 and cyclists use of Foothill Road doesn't justify that kind of cash outlay, the county feels.

Commenting on the trails which will be built, Councilwoman Joyce LeClaire said she liked the idea of building them along such major arterial streets as Hopyard Road and Santa Rita Road. Adults could be encouraged to take trails along less - traveled streets, but young people will stick to the main streets and so they should be made as a safe as possible, said LeClaire.

Councilman William Herlihy asked Sooby for a cost comparision study to see if Second Street would be a better location than First Street for a bike trail on the theory that it might be much cheaper to make the adaptation. LeClaire said the economic comparison was fine with her, but if a traffic count shows that youths use First Street more, that's where the bike trail ought to go, even if it costs more.

On another item Herlihy asked the staff for a report on what impact the general plan designation for multiples in downtown Pleasanton will have on traffic there.

Herlihy was concerned about the narrow streets and felt that high density designations between St. Mary, Bernal, Main, and Pleasanton Streets may place a heavy traffic burden on the area.

Edgar reports to council

Holding tank control going well in city

PLEASANTON — The control of sewage holding tanks in the city is going well, according to City Manager Bill Edgar and an Alameda County Environmental Health Services official.

Councilman Frank Brandes raised concerns Monday night that the county reports on holding tanks forwarded to the city may not give enough information about the monitoring of disposal of holding tank sewage.

Edgar told The Times yesterday that he is satisfied that the city has not had any complaints on the holding tanks over more than a year's use in Pleasanton.

"They seem to be properly administered," said Edgar. "There is not a question in my mind about them."

Dublin had holding tanks prior to Pleasanton and Alameda County Environmental Health Services indicated that there were some problems with them, said Edgar.

But Pleasanton has had one carrier for the effluent, Pleasanton Garbage Service, and there have been no bad reports, he said.

Gil Stratton, sanitarian for county health services, backed up Edgar's statements.

"All of the trucks in Pleasanton are under inspection and the operators are examined. We used to have trouble in Dublin when four or five carriers were serving holding tanks there. All but one or two of those holding tanks have been phased out so we don't seem to be having trouble anymore," said Stratton.

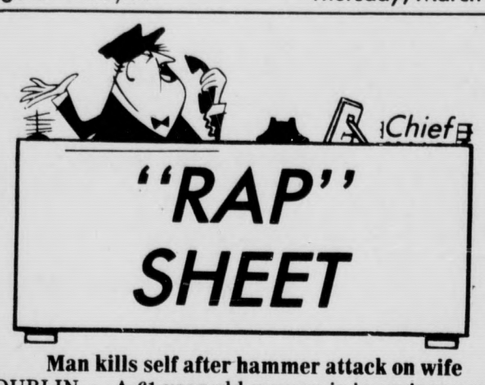
"We have three ways of checking on the sewage," said Stratton. "The property owner tells us how many gallons the truck pulled out of the tank. The pumper truck operator submits the gross amount removed from the holding tank each month. And, third, if the operator is paying Central Sanitary District (where the sewage is deposited), we can always check with them to see how much they are charging each month. If the numbers don't balance, we find out why."

The health department has two other checks, usually employed when the above bookkeeping process doesn't tally. One method is to drop a couple of tablespoons of flourescent green dye in the toilet of a holding tank user. If the dye shows up at the sewage treatment plant, well and good. If it shows up in a farmer's field or railroad right of way, the health department knows it has a problem.

The other method is to get in a car and follow the sewage truck to the supposed destination. Both the dye method and the shadow method have caught violators who emptied Dublin holding tanks, said Stratton.

The health department still uses the dye method, but instead of doing it monthly, officials use it every six months in Pleasanton, said Stratton.

The Pleasanton Garbage Service trucks dump the holding tank sewage into manhole on Crow Canyon Road. The public should not be alarmed about that: the sewage lines below run to the Central Sanitary District sewage treatment plant where they are expecting the material.



Man kills self after hammer attack on wife

DUBLIN — A 61-year-old woman is in serious condition after being struck in the head with a claw hammer by her husband, who apparently committed suicide immediately after the attack.

Jane Croke was listed in serious but improving condition at Valley Memorial Hospital with a severe head wound. A hospital spokesman said Mrs. Croke was conscious after surgery.

A Sheriff's Department spokesman said the Crokes' daughter became concerned over her parents' welfare and went to their Dublin home Monday evening, where she found her mother bleeding in a front room chair, and her father unconscious a few feet away.

Cletus Croke, also 61, was pronounced dead on arrival at Valley Memorial. Mrs. Croke was rushed to surgery in critical condition but improved after surgery.

Deputies found an empty whisky bottle in the kitchen, next to a half - full vial of phenobarbital tablets. They theorized Croke ingested the phenobarbital after the attack to commit suicide.

A carpenter's claw hammer was found near Croke's body. Deputies also found a small container of marijuana seeds on top of a dresser in the couple's bedroom.

The Crokes' address was withheld at the request of the Sheriff's Department.

Juveniles arrested in attempted burglary case

LIVERMORE — Three juveniles were arrested Monday evening after they climbed a fence and broke into Granada High School's concession stand.

Police received an anonymous tip about an hour before the incident indicating a vandalism attack was about to occur at the school.

Officers Michael Newton and Brian Newton and Detective Dan Killeen staked out the school and waited for something to happen. A short time later, Killeen noticed two youths scale the fence surrounding the athletic field and walk toward the bleachers. There, they made contact with a third youth and walked up to the concession stand.

Police arrested the youths as they exited the refreshment booth. Two flashlights and a referee's starter pistol were found in the suspects' possession.

The youths were booked on suspicion of attempted burglary and released with notices to appear in court.

Burglars steal six-week-old pups worth $300

PLEASANTON — Burglars entered a barn behind Max Griffith's Vineyard Avenue home early Tuesday and stole three Australian Shepherd puppies valued at $300.

Griffith told police the pups were in a wire cage inside the barn. He described them as two females and a male, all with blue and white coloration.

There are no suspects.

$1,200 printing machine taken Tuesday

LIVERMORE — Swift - footed burglars snuck into the National Marketing Company office at 186 Airway Blvd. Tuesday and took a $1,200 printing machine during regular business hours.

Police said the rotary imprinter, used to make silk - screen impressions on T-shirts, was lifted between 1:30 - 4:15 p.m. while business continued as usual. Police think burglars entered rear double doors and took the machine, then fled outside to a car parked in the adjacent lot.

There are no suspects at this time.

Motocross classic scheduled

A spring Motocross Classic for bicyclists will be held Saturday, April 3, at Robert Livermore Park for youths seven to 14 years, and 15 years and older. The event, sponsored by the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District, will begin at 10 a.m. with registration starting at 9 a.m. Cost is $1 with motocross card and $1.25 without the card. Participants must have parental permission slips as well as safety gear — helmet, gloves and long-sleeved shirt. Trophies and ribbons will be awarded for each age category and this year a special feature will be a boy - girl relay race. The park is located on East Avenue next to the new Fire Station No. 1.

Crime bill 'Aye' vote from Bates

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — North county supervisor Tom Bates, under fire for his vote against the "Youthful Violent Offenders Act," formally changed his no vote to "aye," yesterday.

The 12th Assembly District candidate said he decided to change his vote after he reread the resolution and discovered it does not endorse San Jose Assemblyman Alister McAlister's act, but rather the idea "that something needs to be done about the problem of youthful offenders."

The proposed law would treat 16- and 17-year-olds probation through the California Youth Authority.

"I recognize that changes in the law are necessary to make our justice system more effective," said Bates.

"There was a lot of heated discussion between the time the motion was made and the vote was taken. Having reviewed the text of the resolution, as it was adopted, I find I have no difficulty in supporting it."

The board's resolution also calls for the county's juvenile justice commission to review comments on the legislation made by Superior Court Judge Lionel Wilson, Juvenile Court Judge John Purchio and chief probation officer James D. Callahan.

Re-enactment party

De Anza Expedition due

In a week, the famous de Anza Expedition enters Mission San Jose.

The re - enactment party started from Mexico last fall to retrace the steps of Lt. Col. Juan Bautista de Anza, who traveled from Sonora, Mexico, to California with a group of colonists 200 years ago.

Anza was commissioned by the Viceroy of Spain to head an expedition colonists to Montrey, to found the presidio and mission in San Francisco and to secure the harbor and port for Spain.

After the colonists were settled in Monterey, Anza and a party of 20 continued on an exploratory trip to visit San Francisco, around the Bay and back to Monterey, including a trek to Livermore.

Entering town via Tesla Road to the south, the group will pause at 4 p.m.and the Rev. John J. Dollard, pastor of St. Charles Borromeo Church in Livermore, will bless a plaque at the Corral Hollow campsite.

There will be a civic ceremony at the Livermore Library at 5 p.m. with the blessing of another plaque by Msgr. Robert G. Adams, pastor of St. Michael's Church.

The Anza Expedition's arrival in the Valley will be celebrated with an all - day fiesta at the Barn on South Livermore Avenue — admission will be free and Mexican entertainment will abound.

The Valley's active Latin - American Services Organization (LASO), hosts of the fiesta, are also staging a big professional Mexican show at the Paramount Theatre the night of April 3, starring Ricardo Montalban. Tickets at $4 to $7 are available at the Paramount in Oakland.

Events leading up to the expedition's arrival in Livermore include ceremonies March 31 at Mission San Jose at 10 a.m. From there, the group will proceed through Fremont, Newark and Union City.

In Hayward, children of All Saints School will celebrate the travelers' arrival about 3:30 p.m. They will camp near Centennial Bridge, where Hayward Historical Society members will dedicate a plaque and seal a time capsule.

In commemoration of the Masses celebrated in 1776 by Franciscan friar Pedro Font, who accompanied Anza, Masses are scheduled at all campsites. On the morning of April 1, the Rev. Richard Hecht, pastor of All Saints Church, will celebrate a 7 a.m. Mass before the travelers head to San Leandro.

They will stop at Mills College at noontime for a formal Oakland welcome from Bishop Floyd L. Begin and Mayor John Reading. After welcoming ceremonies, many of the riders will take the horses to Golden Gate Fields for a parade.

Another cavalcade will proceed from El Cerrito Plaza at 9:30 a.m. following a blessing by Rev. William N. Abeloe, pastor of the Church of St. John the Baptist and ceremonies by civic leaders. They will pause at St. John's School for a serenade in Spanish by the children and then travel through Richmond, San Pablo, Pinole and Rodeo to Tormey, where they will camp.

At 8 o'clock Friday morning, Father James Cummings, pastor of St. Patrick's in Rodeo, will celebrate Mass. The expedition will then visit Crockett, Port Costa, Martinez and Concord. They will spend the night at the Fernando Pacheco Adobe on Grant Street in the outskirts of Concord.

Saturday will take the expedition from Concord to Stoneman Park in Pittsburg, arriving in Antioch about 4 p.m. The horsemen will be escorted to Contra Costa County fairgrounds by city police and officials, charros, youth groups and American Indians. They will be feted with mariachi music and folklorico dancing and will be invited to the show at the Paramount. Camp will be at the Lundsford Ranch.

County schools eye nutrition $$

The Alameda County Board of Education will consider adoption of a resolution to apply for federal funding of a nutrition education project at tonight's meeting.

Board members convene at 8 p.m. in the county office building at 224 W. Winton Ave. in Hayward.

Hart raps 'two organized slates'

PLEASANTON — Reminding prominent citizens of civics lessons taught in school, Zone 7 candidate Ken Hart said he believes the major issue in the zone campaign is "whether or not we are going to allow more people to move into our valley."

In a press release issued yesterday, Hart chastised unnamed "prominent citizens in Dublin, Pleasantnn and even Hayward" for suggesting he withdraw from the race.

Hart is perhaps one of the lesser known of eight candidates in the race for three seats on the board of directors of Zone 7, Alameda County Flood Control and Water Conservation District.

Hart was the last man to file candidacy papers.

Hart said he was told he would "destroy two carefully prepared three - man slates" and that he would be "annihilated" by the "real 'heavies'" running against him.

"How dare the community Big Shots try to intimidate me into dropping out of the Zone 7 race," said Hart. "In case some of you prominent citizens have forgotten, in a democracy anyone who chooses has the right to run for office."

The people decide the outcome, Hart said, and they should have a choice other than "two prearranged slates."

If either slate wins, Hant said, a clear majority will "completely control our valley" because "whoever controls the water controls the valley's future."

The real issue, Hart said, isn't clean water or adequate sewer facilities.

"All the candidates and all of the people want that," said Hart. "The real issue is whether we are going to allow more people to move into our valley, Is Zone 7 going to supply water to any new developments such as Geldertown?" said Hart.

Zone 7, Hart said, "should not follow a pre - development or anti -development course, but should concentrate on applying clean, adequate water to as many or as few people as the voters decide may share our valley with us."

The election is June 8.

Teenage author to address historical society

By LILLY AULT

Getting a book written and published at the age of 18 is "no great accomplishment" in James P. Delgado's opinion.

"A lot of young kids achieve greater things than I did in writing a book," he said. "You just have to make up your mind to do something and and go right out and do it without letting anyone or anything discourage you."

This young, curly-haired, zealous author did just that in setting a goal to write a history on the Agustin Bernal Adobe covering its inhabitants and heritage.

When attempting to find something to write about, Delgado's first feeling was there wasn't too much history in California. He felt a lot has been written on the Missions so he did not want to undertake writing on these. After researching, the 18-year-old found there are many history stories in the area and he hopes to continue writing about them, "until the day I die."

He describes his determination as youth's impudence.

Although researching became very "hectic" for him, Delgado never gave up on uncovering the facts he was looking for. During his five years in gathering information, he describes his determination as "the impudence of youth."

It took Delgado one year to write the book. "I would write everything out in long hand first," he said, "and many times I hardly got more than two sentences written and would tear up the paper because I didn't like the way they read."

Delgado admitted he does not fit the stereotype of the author who wakes up in the middle of the night with great inspirations for writing, nor does he have to go off to some secluded ocean side with a view that would entice him to concentrate. "As a matter of fact," he said, "I would go into my room, close the door and turn the radio up full full blast!"

To gain knowledge and background of the Bernal Adobe, Delgado paid a visit to Walter Johnson, present owner of the home on Foothill Road. He literally "crawled through spaces" with a flashlight held between his teeth to guide him through the dark, narrow openings which led him to details of the home before its restoration in 1943.

During his "exploring" of the Walter Johnson grounds, Delgado was digging around in the garden and drew the comment from Johnson, "There's nothing much out there." Delgado continued his "search" and not to no avail, as stuck in the corner of the wall Delgado discovered something! "I knew right away what it was," he said. "I acquired the necessary equipment from Mr. Johnson and went to work."

Upon completion of his digging, he uncovered a millstone. "The garden was in complete shambles," he reported, "but Mr. Johnson was so excited with what I found that the damage didn't seem to bother him. We took pictures of the millstone for 20 minutes," he recalls.

During the contractors' renovation of the one-time hacienda, the contractor found an 1830 double - barreled pistol and a hand spike which were then given to Delgado, plus the blueprints used in restoring the edifice. Delgado was delighted to receive these treasures, but will loan them to museums so "others may share and enjoy" history.

Delgado feels his adventure into writing the history of the old adobe has been "very, very rewarding, fun, plus a unique education.

"All the people I came in contact with were exceptionally nice and interesting people," he remarked adding, "I am very grateful for all their time and knowledge which was shared with me."

Delgado is a native of San Jose, a friend of many Bernal descendants, and lives on the old Racho Santa Teresa of Jose Joaquin Bernal just south of the city on Monterey Road. He has researched and put together the application for National Registry status for Rancho Santa Teresa, has done archeological research on pre-historic sites at the Peralta Adobe in San Jose and is presently serving a four-year term on the San Jose Landmarks Commission.

Delgado is in the "discussing" stages with Herb Hagemann of Livermore on writing a book about Juan Pablo Bernal. "A book has been written on this," Delgado remarked, "but we want to do an up-to-date edition."

Delgado will be appearing at the Amador - Livermore Valley Historical Society dinner on Tuesday, March 30 at the Pleasanton Hotel as guest speaker giving a talk on his book, "Sombras de la Noche." He hints a few "good antidotes about the Bernal family" which could not be included in his publication might be told.

His book, at $3 per copy, will also be on sale and he will be "most happy to autograph all copies purchased."

The event will begin with no-host cocktails at 6:30 p.m., dinner at 7:30 p.m. followed by Delgado's presentation. In addition to the attraction of the young author's flamboyant personality, Delgado's family and friends will be in attendance along with Walter Johnson, who will bring the millstone discovered on his ranch.

A great pride sparkles in Delgado's eyes when he speaks of his family. He feels they were his "greatest boosters," particularly his father who read each page of the copy as he wrote it from beginning to the finished copy giving "good suggestions" which helped Delgado. To show appreciation to his father for this, unknown to his father, Delgado included his father's name on his list of "acknowledgements."

Reservations for the dinner may be made by mailing a check in the amount of $6.75 per person to the Amador - Livermore Valley Historical Society, P.O. Box 28, Livermore, Calif. 94550.

Delgado, who after graduation from high school this year will attend college to further his education on history, has adopted the following motto, "Donde una puerta cierra, otro se abre," which translated means, "Whenever one door closes, another opens." This, Delgado found to be true in his researching of the book and in life in general.

Author of a book on the Bernal Adobe at 18 years of age, James Delgado promises to charm his audience at the ALVHS meeting March 30.

For the bride...

Working diligently on decorating an upstairs room at the Century House are Vella Bartsch and Louise Clausnitzer of the Pleasanton Women's Club which has undertaken the project. The room will be known as the Bride's Room, and will contain gold and white furniture, a large mirror hanging from the ceiling, and smaller mirror on the wall for the convenience of women dressing for weddings held at the historic home. Drapes were also added for a warmer touch. The first wedding celebrated at the Century House took place in December and the facility has since become increasingly popular for wedding ceremonies as well as receptions. Arrangements for use of the facility may be made with the Pleasanton Recreation Department.

Bickford rezoning hearing set April 6

LIVERMORE — The planning commission is scheduled to reconsider a rezoning request for a seven-acre parcel at the triangle intersection of Portola Avenue and First Street on April 6.

The land is zoned residential and the property owner, Ensign Bickford Realty Corporation, wants the parcel rezoned to neighborhood commercial in order to locate a shopping center at the site.

Following a planning commission recommendation on the request the matter will reach the council, probably by late April.

The rezoning consideration request was made to the council for the second time Monday night and was granted by a split vote. Mayor Helen Tirsell and Councilman Glen Dahlbacka voted against reconsideration but were out-voted by Councilmen John Staley, Dale Turner and Marshall Kamena.

Ensign Bickford first applied to the city last summer for the rezoning and its request was denied by the council which took into consideration a planning commission recommendation to that same effect.

The realty corporation took the city to court over the decision and the court ruled Livermore must reconsider the rezoning application. Livermore appealed that ruling and the entire matter remains tied up in court.

City Attorney Bob Logan advised the council Monday night it was "under absolutely no mandate" to reconsider the rezoning request. He added if the council decided to reconsider, the application first must be referred to the planning commission because of a change in the plan — the willingness of Ensign Bickford to dedicate a 15-foot wide buffer between Scott Street and the far portion of the property.

This new condition was made to calm Scott Street residents' fears of development abutting their property.

When the rezoning request was turned down last summer, the vote on the council was 3-1, Staley opposed and Mayor Archer Futch absent. Voting for the denial were Tirsell, Turner and Don Miller. The majority labeled the rezoning "premature" — there would not be a sufficient population to support the stores — and also expressed sympathy for concerns of Scott Street residents who opposed the development.

The composition of the council has changed and Monday night saw Staley's opinion that "it seems quite appropriate to reconsider" backed up by Kamena and Turner.

Turner last summer indicated he had intended to support the rezoning but changed his vote after hearing testimony from Scott Street residents.

"My primary concern was for the residents of Scott Street," he said Monday night, "and I'm favorable now for reconsideration."

Dahlbacka said he saw nothing new in the request before the council Monday night. "It will just take up our time. There's no real reason to reconsider the request," he explained. Dahlbacka was on the planning commission when the request was first considered last summer and he recommended denial.

Tirsell reiterated the council's reasoning of last summer for her opposing vote on the request and added she did not regard 15 feet of trees a mitigating factor.

Support for the shopping center the last time around was received, from the North of I-580 Citizens' Group while many Scott Street residents opposed such a development.

The principle tenant lined up for the shopping center last summer was Tradewell Stores which owns Prairie Markets.

Cystic Fibrosis bikeathon coming to Valley in May

The valley is slated to be one of the locations to have a 25-mile route in the First Annual East Bay "Keep on Wheeling for Cystic Fibrosis" bike - a - thon on Sunday, May 2.

Riders will be sponsored with donations to the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation for each mile they complete and a host of celebrities will join the bikers. Prizes also will be awarded for riders who complete their route, return $50 or more, return the most pledges for the route and return the most pledges in the bike - a -thon.

The event is to raise money for Cystic Fibrosis research and the care and treatment for millions of children who suffer from the disease or other related children's lung diseases.

Among those celebrities who will participate in the ride are Wayne Walker of KPIX; Gary Cocker, KYA; Monty Stickles, KGO; Gene Upshaw, Oakland Raiders; Merv Upshaw, Kansas City Chiefs; Sherman White, Cincinnati Bengals; Dave Maggard, Athletic Director, Cal Bears; a Cal athlete at each route, and Jack - in - the - Box characters.

Each rider who completes the 25 - mile route will receive an "I Did It — 25 Miles for Cystic Fibrosis" button and a coupon from Jack - in - the -Box.

Riders returning pledges of $50 or more will receive an official "I Did It" T-shirt and the rider who returns the most money on each route will win a new bicycle, courtesy of Montgomery Wards.

Grand Prize for the rider who turns in the most money from all the routes is a round trip weekend for four to Disneyland with air fare courtesy of Air California.

More information will be provided by the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation on the bike - a - thon next month and sponsor sheets will be made available at schools.

Vendor forms set

PLEASANTON— Vendor applications for the "Good Times" parade on Sunday, May 23 are now available at The Double Take, 641 Main St.

Vendors permits will be issued to local service clubs and youth groups. A 10 per cent charge will be levied on all vendors to cover costs of parade operation by the parade committee.

For further information, call 462-1400. Gracedaryl Dickinson is vendor booth chairwoman.

Mental health conference Thursday

LIVERMORE — Want to know what mental health services are available in Livermore?

There will be a public conference Tuesday afternoon, March 30, where local residents will be invited to learn about mental health and related services available in the Valley.

The "community resource conference" is sponsored by the Livermore Unified School District's School Attendance Review Board. It will be held 2:30 to 4:30 p.m., at the Education Center, 685 Las Positas Blvd.

Mimi Warner, chairperson of the attendance board, says the purpose of the conference is to share information about mental health and related services. There is no charge.

$34,000 to trim a tree

When Pleasanton set out to protect the 6000 trees that adorn the community's boulevards and parks, the city went all out. This "Hi Ranger" costs about $34,000, allows a tree trimmer to reach 50 feet into the air, and should save "several thousands of dollars each year" that had been budgeted for private contractors to deal with just the most dangerous tree limbs. Now preservation, as well as public safety, will be the city's word on trees. Gary Smith was in the Ranger's cage for this action photo on Second Street, while Rick Ahlborn stood by.

Some sweetness in Dublin

Linda Jean Ellison (left), proprietress of — what else? — Linda Jean's Bakery in Dublin'sAlcosta Mall, received her official Blarney Stone from Chamber of Commerce Director Don Carlson. Coming along to brighten the presentation and sweeten the sweets is Dublin Maid Louise Hodges. Linda Jean's specialty is cakes and specifically magnificent wedding cakes. Her bakery also sports a coffee shop and fresh donuts.

Rather do it himself

Hap's has long been a popular spot for lunch between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m., and dinners are served nightly from 5 p.m. Thursday night is becoming THE night to be at Hap's if you enjoy fine Mexican food.

Food ingredients scrutinized

Are additives harmful?

SAN RAMON — You are what you eat — so many people believe. And if that's true, most people are a combination of many things, including antioccidents, dough conditioners, emulsifiers, firming agents, fumigants, lubricants, ph control agents, preservatives, propellant gases, sequestrants, stabilizers, synergists and texturizers.

That's because most Americans eat food containing additives — more than 30 varieties of additives the Food and Drug Administration characterizes as "generally recognized as safe by technical effect" (GRAS).

But registered dietitian Lucy Duba believes that some additives may be harmful and many others are, at the very least, unnecessary.

Duba spoke about food additives Tuesday at a Family Medical Center program in recognition of National Nutrition Week.

Duba is a member of the Diablo Valley Dietetic Association and head of the association's speakers' bureau.

Additives, Duba said, are "minor ingredients added to food to achieve a specific technical effect." For example, they preserve, emulsify, flavor, or color. They also supply nutrients lost in the production process.

Duba explained that it is difficult to find foods that don't contain additives.

"Consumers should take time to examine the contents of the foods they buy," she said. The contents are listed on the package, with the prddominant ingredient listed first, and the others in descending order.

"Even sugar and salt are additives," said Duba. "Many processed cereals for children are half sugar."

Duba said Americans are using more sugar because there is more available. She cited figures that indicated a persons's average consumption of refined sugar rose from 97.6 pounds in 1960 to 102.4 pounds in 1972.

In 1973 the average yearly intake of salt was 15 pounds, 4.2 pounds of dextrose, 8.4 pounds of corn syrup, and 1 pound of 1800 other food additives.

Convenience foods are the worst offenders. But Duba noted that other foods, often regarded as more "pure," actually contain hidden additives that you won't find on the label.

Foods such as oranges and apples don't carry labels, but they have been processed, too.

That orange you pick up at the local market probably has been injected to look its bright orange color.

That apple you buy is covered with wax to make it look shiny and appealing. Duba recommends apples be carefully washed, because wax is applied after pesticides have been sprayed, so it is advisable to wash off the wax to wash off the pesticide.

Food coloring does nothing but color food — it has no other function. Red dye No. 2 recently was identified as carcinogenic and was removed from the list of GRAS substances, but processors contemplate replacing it. Red Dye No. 40, which Duba said researchers know even less about.

"Consumers have got to write to the processors and say that they'll still buy the products without the coloring," said Duba, "because researchers have shown that the public wants attractive food."

She said processors were not about to make the food less visually appealing unless prompted to do so by the public.

"Everyone reacts differently to food," said Duba. "There are some additives that people can tolerate, others they can't."

She said the best practice is to identify those additives that are causing problems, and avoid their use.

And, Duba said, shop carefully to get a variety of products. "Your body can clean out just about anything if it's taken in moderation."

Bob's enters third year

LIVERMORE — Going into their third year, Smorga Bob's is becoming more and more popular in the valley for luncheon and dinner. The "all you can eat" policy has made a big hit in this time of high grocery prices.

One offering that has attracted a lot of attention is the Monday Night Family Special. There is a complete menu offered, including 29 salad items and as many as 16 hot items, free beverages, free desserts and on and on. All of this for $2.25 (20 cents for each year of age for children up to eight).

Senior citizens are entitled to their 10 per cent discount every day of the week regardless of time.

As for luncheon, you receive a full meal (all you can eat) and get change from $2.

Smorga Bob's has facilities for infants, furnishing bibs, high chairs, and just about anything else that is needed. The baby's bottle is gladly warmed up, too.

Smorga Bob's — that's the place where you are always greeted with a smile.

Pleasanton plans major Americana festival

In the true Spirit of '76, Ellinor Whaley and her daughter, Elizabeth, will share their skill in the old - fashioned art of soap - making at the Pleasanton Bicentennial Heritage Festival planned in May.

A colorful kaleidoscope of American home arts and performing arts of the past and present will be the Pleasanton Bicentennial Heritage Festival planned May 15 and 16 at Amador Valley Community Park.

The Pleasanton Bicentennial Commission, coordinator of this major Bicentennial observance, is looking for community residents eager to share their talents in the Spirit of '76.

The festival will incorporate arts and crafts booths, ethnic American food concessions, an adult and children's art show, classic films, performing arts, hayrides, an antique car display, town-criers, a petting zoo, and demonstrations of pioneer home arts.

Already on the bandwagon for the festival are the Pleasanton Art League (which customarily sponsors a street fair in May), the Bicentennial Festivals Committee, the Pleasanton Recreation Department and the Chamber of Commerce. Committee members are Billie Schmer, Charlotte Severin, Barbara Van Slyke, Phyllis Wentworth, Bev Hamlin, Al Fisher, Jim Allen, Barbara Joan Smith, Betty Hostrand, Sandy Sinclair, Marty Wadekamper and Judy Vollgraf.

Are you an artist or craftsperson interested in renting a booth space for the two-day festival? Contact Billis Schmer at 846-5437 or Phyllis Wentworth at 846-4306.

Information and entry forms for the adult art show may be obtained from Eunice Dobbins at 828-6668. The children's art show will be organized by Dorothy Gordon at 846-5801 and will include puppet shows, the petting zoo, and an opportunity for children to exercise their creative art skills.

Do you know how to make soap? Candles? Pan gold? Sharpen saws? Spin or weave? Demonstrators of these and other skills nearly forgotten in modern times are sought by Charlotte Severin at 846-6382 or Betty Nostrand at 846-7688.

Among those performing during the celebration will be the Pleasanton Bicentennial Band, the Livermore - Amador Symphony, the Civic Chorus, Phillipine dancers, the Ballet Folklorico, and barbershop quartets.

All those attending or participating in the event are encouraged to wear costumes with prizes awarded to the best in several categories. Patterns for costumes are available at the Pleasanton library.

Nash to conduct April workshop

A workshop in painting landscape and still life subjects in watercolors and acrylics will be conducted April 2 and 3 by Bob Nash under the auspices of the Valley Artists of Dublin.

Reservations for the workshop to be held from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Pleasanton Cultural Arts Building may be made through Phyliss Couper at 462-4931.

Nash, well-known Bay Area watercolorist, has built a reputation on his participation in the annual Jade Fon workshops at Asilimar. He is vice - president of the Society of Western Artists.

Student recital

Four Pleasanton students of Carole R. Maxson will participate Sunday, March 28 in a student recital sponsored by the Music Teachers Association of Southern Alameda County. Playing the 2:45 p.m. recital at Ohlone College are Kelly Holder, David Johnson, Delinda Miller and Frank Long.

Craft guild plans show

The Valley Craft Guild is making final preparations for its fourth annual spring show set April 2 and 3 at Howard Johnson's in Dublin.

The public is invited to view and shop an array of handcrafted items from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday, April 2, and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, April 3.

'Show Boat' sizzles!

inside the arts

ALMA SAYLES AND MIKE DE MARCO.

By JEAN McKENNA

A red-hot sizzler of a hit guaranteed to delight audiences is the Contra Costa Musical Theatre's production of "Show Boat" now playing at the Civic Arts Theatre in Walnut Creek.

The music, the music! Musical Director Karl Francis Pi ster calls up all the sultry, slow-burning passion of the South evoked by the music, Jerome Kern's most enduring achievement, and the singing cast executes the songs with marvelous finesse.

The audience is set shivering to its toes with Walter Hinton's mellow and sensitive rendition of "Ol' Man River," which establishes a solid foundation for the remainder of the show. Hinton, a professional who has sung with both LA and SF light opera companies, also manages an irresistible finger - snapping, hip - swivelling portrayal of Joe, the slave.

The audience is brought to tears with Alma Sayles' heart-rending and sophisticated interpretation of the sentimental ballad, "Bill." Her commanding, satisfying voice does the music full justice, and her performance as Julie, the actress brought to ruin by love, is the finest and most convincing.

The plot is thick enough to please the most incurably romantic, with four love stories intertwined and drawn to a conclusion just this side of tragedy.

Romantic leads are carried by the debonair Carl Daddio, who has appeared twice with Pleasanton Playhouse, and Peggy Weede, who played the same role in CCMT's 1968 "Show Boat." They fall in love beautifully to the accompaniment of favorites such as "Only Make Believe," but Carl is not quite slick enough as the gambler who loves them and leaves them.

The talented Linda Grantham is a very sassy, very cute Ellie, happily teamed up with dance partner Paul Devore. David Sunderman of San Ramon is a highly-entertaining Cap'n Andy.

Costumes and choreography are as colorful and flamboyant as the Mississippi River scene; the chorus is zesty and strong.

Veteran Directoi George Felker III slips only occasionally — allowing a comical dry-ice fog, crowding a large company onto a reduced stage, and failing to remedy faulty lighting. But who but a critic notices?

Tickets are available through April by calling 938-9468 or 939-0355.

Artist-of-the-month

Leslie Walter of the Livermore Art Association is the featured artist through April 15 at the association's gallery located in Livermore's Carnegie Building. The public is invited to view her exhibit of paintings and jewelry during gallery hours, Thursday through Sunday, 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mrs. Walter uses acrylics opaquely on canvas, and as a wash or line on paper. Along with these paintings, the artist has displayed necklaces constructed in a variety of materials such as silver, ceramic beads, coral, shells and semi - precious stones. Leslie has been painting and drawing for the past four years since she enrolled in an adult education mixed - media class taught by her mother Barbara Gustafson. Also during gallery hours various artists may be seen working in their particular media such as stained glass, coil basketry, off-loom weaving, drawing or painting.

The "Oscar Sweepstakes," that annual test for colts, fillies and an intrepid phalanx of war horses, takes to the Los Angeles Music Center "track" this Monday night for the 48th running.

Before the evening is over, more than a few gargantuan egos will have been bruised and just as many inflated.

Monday night's televised affair will ask "Where are all the brilliant leading ladies coming from?"... the past year having underscored what many believe is a dearth of major female draws.

We wonder if the name Glenda Jackson rings a bell with these people!

We viewed Miss Jackson last Saturday night in the vehicle (Hedda) that could well take her to an Academy Award Monday night. With the intention of reacquainting movie buffs with the contenders in each category, we herewith present our "Oscar Sweepstakes" rundown (the odds are homemade).

BEST MOTION PICTURE

One Flew Over The Cuckoo's Nest — 3-2, films that "disturb" one's psyche are in nowadays.

Barry Lyndon — 2-1, costuming and cinematography are unmatched in recent film annals.

Jaws — 3-1, now considered the all-time "fright" epic. The persons responsible for the mechanical shark deserve Oscars.

Nashville — 4-1, a brilliantly conceived film with a host of standout performances.

Lies My Father Told Me — No odds as it's not in the running. However, it is one of the most compelling and sensitively directed films this writer has ever seen. A brilliant work.

BEST ACTOR

Jack Nicholson — 3-2, previously nominated for roles in four other pictures, One Flew Over The Cuckoo's Nest is probably the zenith of his career.

Walter Matthau — 3-1, his chances may well be determined by how much support George Burns gets for supporting actor ... and visa versa.

James Whitmore — 6-1, Give 'Em Hell, Harry drew tremendous critical acclaim.

Maxmillian Schell — The Man in the Glass Booth has received very little notice but Schell still rates an outside shot ... 10-1.

BEST ACTRESS

Glenda Jackson — 2-1, her performance in Henrik Ibsen's foreboding period piece rates her a slight favorite.

Louise Fletcher — 3-1, as the authoritarian nurse in Cuckoo's Nest, Miss Fletcher makes a brilliant return to the screen after a 10-year absence. Latter will hurt her in Academy voting.

Isabelle Adjani — 4-1, nominated for The Story of Adele H.

Ann-Margret — 6-1, nominated for Tommy. The less said about this nomination the better.

BEST SUPPORTING ACTOR

George Burns — 3-1, sentiment counts a lot in Hollywood and Burns' portrayal of the irrascible old vaudevillian may take it all.

Brad Dourif — 4-1, nominated for Cuckoo's Nest.

Jack Warden — 6-1, nominated for Shampoo.

Chris Sarandon — 6-1, the best outside shot for portrayal in Dog Day Afternoon, which also produced another nomination for Al Pacino.

Burgess Meredith — 6-1, for his memorable supporting role in The Day of the Locust!

BEST SUPPORTING ACTRESS

Lee Grant — 3-1, could get a lot of "sentimental" vote because her TV series was cancelled — they think that way in Hollywood!

Lily Tomlin — 3-1, nominated for sensitive protrayal of aging groupie in Nashville.

Ronee Blakley — 3-1, also nominated for Nashville performance.

Brenda Vaccaro — 4-1, a potential superstar who scored in Once Is Not Enough.

BEST SONG

I'm Easy — 3-2, written and sung by Keith Carradine.

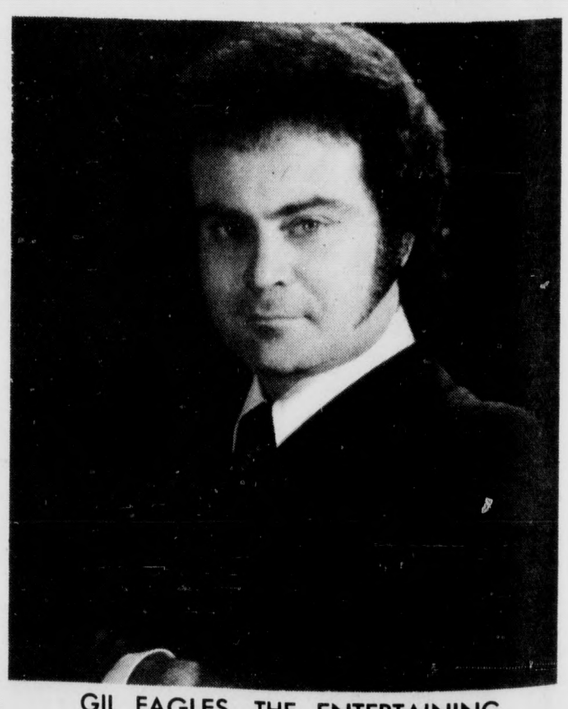
How Lucky Can You Get — 2-1, from Funny Lady.

Richard's Window — 3-1, from The Other Side of The Mountain.

Now That We're In Love — 3-1, from Whiffs!!!

Theme From Mahogany — 3-1, anything associated with Diana Ross these days has got to have a chance.

For those wanting my odds on the other categories such as best director, screenplay and cinematography, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to "Oscar Guesspert" care of this paper and you'll receive an 8 by 10 glossy of Ann-Margret riding a motorcycle across the stage of the Las Vegas Hilton!!!



GIL EAGLES, THE ENTERTAINING PSYCHIC, brings mystery and mirth to the Amador Valley High Auditorium Monday, March 29 at 8 p.m. Admission is $3 adults and $2 students.

For Thursday, March 25, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You should find your friends very cooperative today, provided you don't spring something on them at the last minute.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't rock the boat today with a switch of tactics on projects that are presently running smoothly. Stick to proven methods.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you have doubts regarding something that's been on your mind lately, discuss it with one whose opinion you value.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Shared ventures appear rather promising for you today, provide they're not speculative. Avoid taking risks.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Benefits today are likely to come more through others than from your own efforts. Try to associate with winners.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Rewards for a job well done could run a little higher than usual today. Take pride in whatever you may tackle.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Conditions in general should be very pleasant for you today but you will have to keep extravagant tendencies in check.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Things may start off slightly uncertain today. Don't let it disturb you. It's the end result that counts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You should be quite good at handling the unexpected today, particularly if you follow hunches as well as logic.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Set aside more frivolous interests today. Concentrate on things that could benefit you financially or careerwise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Someone you were counting on for help today may let you down. His role will be filled by a more dependable ally.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Although conditions may be a bit unusual today, they should turn out to your liking. Expect the unexpected.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The unlucky expert asked us, "Who are those old timers playing East and West at table eight?"

We replied, "We don't know their real names, but in the days of auction they were known as A and B and always defended hands in the bridge columns of that day."

"I wish I had known," he groaned. "Look at this hand. There I was in a perfectly normal three notrump. After the opening spade lead I was going to need four diamond tricks for my contract. As you can see, the diamonds are 3-3 and West has the king so everyone else made an overtrick. I just made three for a bottom score."

If you readers can't figure out what happened, it seems that old man A had played his king of diamonds on the first lead of the suit. Our unlucky expert had ducked in order to guard against a 4-2 diamond break and made only four diamond tricks against five scored at all other tables.

Safety course for hunters

Charlie Litz

NATASHA ORLOFF the daughter and long-time helper of George Orloff (who is Chairman of the Hunter Safety Committee) reports that a class has just completed a Hunter Safety Course at the Livermore -Pleasanton Rod and Gun Club. Natasha does a valuable assist with all the paper work involved! She says the following students successfully passed the course:

Micki Bucheit; Keith Clendenen; Joe DiGiallonardo; Samuel DiGiallonardo; Sam L. DiGiallonardo; Thomas DiGiallonardo; David Fleshman; Pamela Hallin; Rex A. Henderson; Robert S. Imloch; Carl Keesling; Joe Keller; Jon Kennedy;

John King; Nancy Kreider; David Lewis; Chris Lietzke; Chris Martin; Ken Meadows; David Montgomery; Jay Morris; Cindy Ordoins; Marily Ordoins; Donald Perry; Stella Riebli; Gary Replogle; Jason Rohrer;

Beverly Rominger; Eugene Rominger; Michael Root; Anita Santos; Richard Santos; Bill Talbot; Steven Tatman; Gregory Thoele; Christine Watson; Dirk Widman; Daniel Wood; and Reginald Wood.

ED KING, Range Master, and Roger Matuska report a good Running Deer Shoot at the local club over the weekend. Results are:

Distinguished: John Rock of Eagle Rock Club, score 47; Cal Rowe of Eagle Rock, 42.

Master: Carl Ahre of Livermore Club, 38; Rich Johnson of Eagle Rock, 36.

Expert: Randy Nielson of Eagle Rock, 37; Bob Robbins of Fremont Club, 33.

Sharpshooter: Warren Judd of Livermore, 37; Lonnie Amaya of Tri-City, 30.

Marksman: Darrell Barton of Sacramento, 31; Marvin Bargagliotti, Livermore, 30.

Team scores brought up to date for the series shows Eagle Rock Club leading with a cumulative score of 541. Livermore is second with 482; Tri-City a close third with 422; Sacramento with 417; Fremont with 373; and Bay Sportsmen, who have not competed in all the meets, with 220.

Just one more competition shoot in this year's series, and it looks like Eagle Rock is going to be hard to beat!

Carl Mossinger reports a good turnout of guys and gals at the iron chicken shoot.

Ed Heikila and Ed Short, in charge of the pistol shoot for linguisa, state that a young fellow by the name of Ken Nielsen was the top shooter. Ken is 13 years old, I'm told, and won out over five others.

Warren Judd, chairman of the Off-hand Rifle, says the top shooters in his area are Larry Mikkelsen, Master; and Jim Ratto, Marksman.

The Citizen Nongame Advisory Committee to the Department of Fish and Game has called on the DFG to expend at least half of its programs and resources on nongame species work.

As a special fund agency, the DFG receives virtually all of its support from hunting and fishing license fees, stamps and permits, commercial fishing taxes and its share of excise taxes on the sale of sporting arms and ammunition and fishing tackle.

For the past two years the DFG has obtained $1 million annually from the state's general fund for nongame work, and next year's proposed budget provides for considerably more to finance projects of this type.

An advisory committee has recommended that efforts of the DFG should be directed toward achieving self-sustaining populations of all native species, with particular emphasis on endangered and rare species.

The committee also advises a name change for the department to better reflect its commitment to nongame programs. They suggest something along the lines of the Department oF Wildlife Conservation, or the Department of Fish and Wildlife.

Other committee proposals include those of identifying the natural ecosystems in the state; strengthening and giving top priority to programs to return threatened species to self - perpetuating levels; and the halting of introductions of exotic animals except when it can be demonstrated they would not harm native species or their habitat.

Wolf depth sinks Pokes

Using its superior depth San Ramon High School swam to an easy 105-67 victory over Livermore in a EBAL swimming meet yesterday in Danville.

San Ramon grabbed nine first places en route to its first win in EBAL action. The Wolves lost to Amador last week in the league opener.

Livermore won two of the first three events when Jim Happe won the 200 - yard freestyle and Paul Lahmann captured the 200-yard individual medley. However, the Wolves won the next four events to take a big advantage.

Devitt Cunningham won two races to spark the San Ramon rally.

He took the 100-yard flystroke in 56.9 and came back to win the 500-yard freestyle in 5:04.5.

Wendy Morrison won the diving competition held in the middle of the meet to help turn the tide in favor of San Ramon.She won the competition with a fine 201.65 score. Dave Campbell of the Pokes was second and San Ramon's Tricia Hayes finished third.

San Ramon won both varsity relays. The 200-yard medley team of Mark Sucksdorf, Tom Horner, Greg Shields and Matt Faber swam to a 1:50.0 clocking. San Ramon finished the meet with its 400-yard freestyle team taking a first. That team was composed of Bill McDonald, Tim Torchiana, Terry Gilliland and Cunningham. Their time was 3:33.4.

Livermore's final victory came in the 100-yard backstroke where Lahmann took a 59.5 win.

Horner and Gilliland also had individual wins to aid the Wolf cause. Horner took the 100-yard breaststroke in 1:07.8 and Gilliland captured the 50-yard freestyle in 24.2.

San Ramon was aided by six second places in its victory over the Cowboys, who are now 0-1 in EBAL action.

San Ramon also breezed to an impressive win in the junior varsity competition, taking a 107-58 decision.

Dan Sciarono sparked the junior Wolves with a 6:56.9 victory in the 500-yard freestyle and a leg on the winning 200-yard medley relay squad.

Mats smash California

As a high school of less than 700 students, California High School, the newest addition to the EBAL, tasted yet another defeat yesterday.

Granada High School of Livermore unleashed a host of entries which in the end accounted for a 110-48 victory over the Grizzlies in EBAL swimming at Olympic Pool in San Ramon.

Once again, Cal's small population, coupled with inexperience accounted for the Matadors' easy victory. Granada outnumbered coach Ken Carrolls' crew by three-to-one, and the Grizzlies were clearly outmatched.

The Matadors, a clapping - type club with enough talent to take the championship, blended speed, power and background training to outdistance the Grizzlies.

Granada's Chris Hoenig, Mike Kurtzer and Dave Eckard literally stopped the Grizzlies in 11 of the 12 events.

Hoenig won the 200 and 100 freestyle events with times of 1:47.1 and 50.8 respectively and also led the winning 200-yard medley relay team.

Kurtzer sped to 24.4 in winning the 50-yard freestyle, was third in the 100-yard freestyle, and second man on the medley relay.

Eckard, meanwhile, won the 200-yard individual medley, breezing to 2:11.2 and came back to win the 500-yard freestyle with a 5:08.8 clocking. Eckard was first man on the Matadors' 400 - freestyle relay team.

Granada also won the junior varsity contest by a commanding 133-24 margin. Jim Althouse won the 100-yard freestyle and 100-yard breaststroke and Andy Turnbull was victorious in the 200-yard individual medley and 50-yard flystroke. Both Turnbull and Althouse were members of the winning 200 - yard medley relay team. The Mats' Bill Allison took the 200-yard freestyle, was second in diving and anchored the 400-yard freestyle relay team to a 4:31.0 victory.

Well-balanced Gaels roll over Mustangs

A balanced Dublin high School swimming team ground out a methodical 98-52 win over painfully shorthanded Monte Vista yesterday at Round Hill Country Club in an EBAL dual meet infused with as much suspense as a match race between Secretariat and Mr. Ed.

The Mustangs undressed just 10 swimmers for the varsity races, making a Dublin victory an almost foregone conclusion.

The aesthetic highlight of the meet came minutes before the conclusive 400 Free Relay when the Gaels Victor Hinojosa displayed a comedic touch, appearing for his leg wearing a life jacket and diver's mask, which he discarded by post time.

But high school swimming has never pretended to be a spectator sport so even the lack of tension could not overshadow the fact that eight Gaels placed in more than one event.

Kevin McKenna led the way with firsts in the 100 Breast (1:08.9) and 400 free relay and placed third in the 200 freestyle (2:25.6). Glenn Hoxie also did well in three events, capturing the 100 freestyle (55.0) and the 400 free relay while placing second in the 200 freestyle (2:02.9).

Stew Burke, who swam the opening leg of Dublin's winning 200 medley relay, also won the 100 back (1:06.6). He was listed at third in the 200 individual medley at 1:59.6, a time good enough for first. The inconsistency was rectified when meet officials changed the time to 2:29.6.

Tony Matinrazm, Gerry Tenborg, Bob Smith, Mark Steinhauff and Hinojosa were others who swam on a winning relay team and placed in an individual event.

For Monte Vista, a trio of paddlers stood out.

Doug Parker was first in the 50-yard freestyle in 25.8 and was runner-up in the 100 free at 55.3. Steve Czekala was second in a pair of events, the 200 IM (2:14.5) and the 500 free (5:10).

Diver Chip Nelson got the Mustangs' most decisive win, amassing 216.65 points to 178.1 for Tenborg, the top Dublin finisher.

In junior varisty action, Dublin rolled, 67-26. Bill Durfey was the lone double winner as he took both the 100 free (1:05.3) and tied with teammate Mark Jonston for first in the 50 Free (27.5).

Paddys top Superscoops

The Dublin Paddys scored their third straight shutout in State Cup soccer last weekend, whipping the Walnut Creek Superscoops, 5-0.

The tough defense of John Aubin, Robbie Allen, Chris Davis and Gary Phillips allnwed just two shots on goal.

Aubin also scored a goal for the winners. Jim Hitcher had two scores, and Kevin Earl and Joe Garlington had goals.

John Kulak's goal in sudden death gave the Dublin Shamrocks a 5-4 victory over the Awahnee Braves. Mike Gadow scored in regulation time. Gadow, Danny Reyes and Mike Escoto had penalty kick scores. Danny Scott provided eight saves for Dublin.

Mark Kulak turned back nine shots on goal as the Rangers edged Montclair Santos, 3-2. Charles McIntyre, Tom Schneider and Dan Rogers all scored for the winners. Bill Durfey, Chris Zika and Donald Ferguson played outstanding defense.

Blanda testifies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — George Blanda, after studying Joe Kapp on film, was allowed to testify in court Wednesday and give his opinion of the plaintiff's football talents as the four-week-old Kapp trial neared its end.

Blanda and two of Kapp's former Minnesota Vikings' teammates, Gary Cuozzo and Gene Washington, were among the final witnesses. Blanda was called by the National Football League and gave Kapp a generally low rating, while Cuozzo and Washington testified for Kapp and praised him.

Sports Briefs

United, Centaurs play

Ballistic United will meet the Ballistic Centaurs Saturday in Pleasanton for a berth in the under-10 State Cup soccer championship game.

United reached the semi-finals by whipping the Livermore Raiders last weekend, 6-1.

Kevin Mayn pumped home three goals to lead the Ballistic assault. David Irish, Tony Luppino and Gary Daniels also scored for the winners. Mayn contributed two assists. Others went to Irish, Daniels, Steve Maciorski and Clark Morris.

Lenny McMillin and Nicky Pearson shared the goal tending chores and combined for six saves.

Morris, Scott Stanko and Brian Warman were outstanding defensively.

AV tops MV

Amador High School's girls tennis team took a 7-0 decision over Monte Vista High Tuesday in a practice match.

Karin Culink of Amador defeated Carol Downing of Monte Vista in a key singles match.

In doubles competition Cathy Gadd and Lisa Estrada of Amador defeated Sue Osmer and Margeret Cockerton of Monte Vista, 6-1, 6-1.

In the other doubles match Becky Canessa and Lynn Thomson of the Donr took Sandy Eihert and Dianne Arnold of the Mustangs, 6-2, 6-4.

Parakeets win State Cup tilt

The Pleasanton Parakeets won their Girls State Cup soccer match last weekend, downing Spirit of 76 from Fremont, 2-1.

Karen Redgwick and Gretchen Heinbaugh scored goals for Pleasanton. Jenny Lawson assisted both scores.

Jamie Pappas, Bernie Pla and Julie Bangert were all instrumental in the victory.

Pleasanton United's under-14 team thumped the San Jose Bobcats, 3-1.

Lisa Thomas sparked the offense with two goals. Stacy Smiley also scored. Kristy Crow, Julie Bigger and Lori Fleming all played key roles for United.

In under-12 play, Pleasanton United outlasted the Concord Hurricanes, 2-1.

Jamie McEntee and Tracy Spence scored goals. Denise Winters assisted one.

Top players for Pleasanton included Katie Garrigan, Lori Estes and Denise Stennette.

In District III girls soccer, the San Ramon Superiors tied Pleasanton United, 3-3.

Almost ready for occupancy

Finishing touches are being applied to the new Fire Station No. 1 on East Avenue and the alarm system is due to be set up and furniture moved in by next week. Dedication ceremonies for the building are scheduled for Friday, April 2, at 4:30 p.m. and U.S. Congressman Pete Stark plans to attend. The $412,000 structure was built with federal revenue sharing funds and will replace Fire Station No. 1 now located on First Street. The new station, next to Robert Livermore Park, will be the main fire station for the city and has administrative offices for fire department officials.

Corley, Critchfield reappointed

Valley attorneys John Corley and Burke Critchfield were reappointed to the county's Law Library Board of Trustees this week.

Corley, a Pleasanton attorney, will resume his seat as ex-officio trustee representing board of supervisors chairman Fred Cooper. The appointment marks the beginning of his eighth year on the board.

Crithfield, with offices in both Pleasanton and Livermore, will continue his service as the Alameda County Bar Association representative.

The two attorneys will join Superior Court Judges Robert L. Bostick, Robert H. Kroninger and Gordon Minder; and Municipal Court Judges William Levins of Oakland and George MacDonald of Alameda.

The board of trustees oversees the county's law libraries in the Alameda County Court House and at the county complex in Hayward.

Second in a year

Major fusion advance at lab

LIVERMORE — A major advane in fusion research was announced yesterday at Lawrence Livermore Laboratory by Dr. Robert L. Hirsch, Acting Administrator for Solar, Geothermal and Advanced Energy Systems, U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration.

It was the second major fusion announcement in less than a year.

Hirsch reported that scientists, using the Livermore 2XII-B experimental machine, achieved double the increase in the product of fuel density and temperature limit for the 2XII-B.

The maximum theoretical limit was exceeded by increasing the fuel density while holding the temperature approximately constant.

The increase in fuel density demonstrated in the most recent Livermore experiments has the potential of substantially raising the energy yield from a reactor of given size and cost, Hirsch said.

The new findings also have major implications for the economics and versatility of fusion reactors based on the magnetic mirror principle.

A potential advantage of a mirror reactor is that it may be built in smaller areas than competing fusion concepts.

In fusion, the central goal is to produce an extremely hot gas of fusion fuels, called plasma, and confine it long enough to generate useful energy.

The 2XII-B is a fusion device based on the "magnetic mirror" concept, so called because strong magnetic fields are used at the ends of the device to reflect, or "mirror," the energetic fuel particles back into the system.

Last July, LLL scientists attained temperatures of 130 million degrees centigrade for the 2XII-B's hydrogen plasma.

This temperature was more than four times higher than that previously achieved in similar experiments.

Overnight ski trip scheduled

PLEASANTON — The recreation department will sponsor an overnight ski trip to Heavenly Valley April 10 and 11.

There will be a day and a half of skiing. Total cost for bus, lodging and lift tickets will be $33.50. There must be at least 40 skiers to make the trip possible. Deadline for signups is April 7.

Signups will be taken at the recreation department, 200 Bernal Ave. Flyers are available at the recreation department or the West Wind Teen Center, 4455 Black Ave. For more information, call the recreation department at 846-3202.

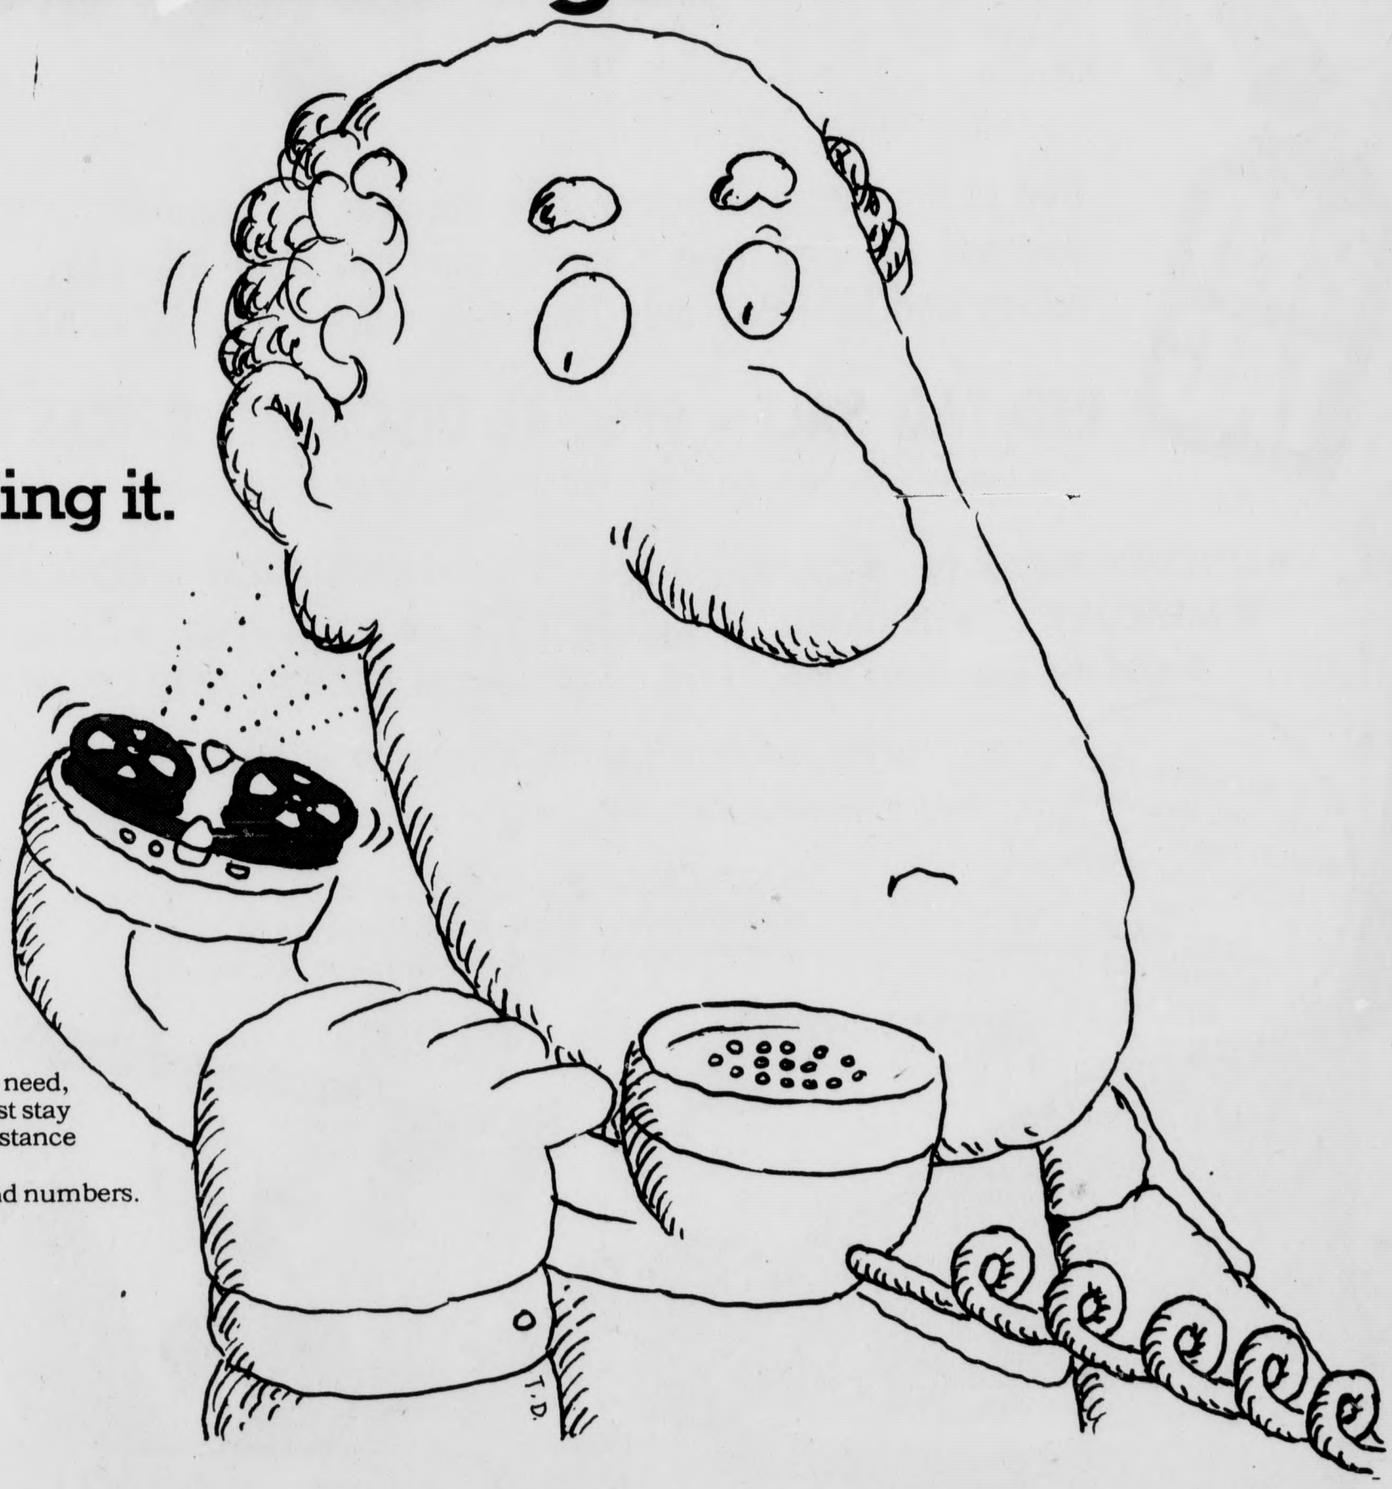
Announcing Pacific Telephone's new recorded message.

And how to avoid hearing it.



Starting soon, when you call Directory Assistance, instead of talking immediately to an Operator, you'll be greeted by a short recording.

It'll take roughly fifteen seconds to remind you that the best way to find phone numbers is to look them up in your phone book.

We're hoping that people—especially those 12% of our customers who make more than half of all Directory Assistance calls—will choose to avoid the recording altogether and use that fifteen seconds to find the number for themselves.

If enough of them do, it'll help cut our unnecessary Directory Assistance costs. And when our costs stay down, so do yours.

Of course, if you can't find the telephone number you need, or it's not in your local directory, we're here to help. So just stay on the line after the recording ends and a Directory Assistance Operator will answer.

Remember, the phone book is the cheapest way to find numbers. And it's the fastest way, too.

So please, skip the recording. Use the book.
